

In 2000, Guinness Book of World Records established him as the pop celebrity having supported the most charities, registered as 39, although he has supported at least 33 more charities, as seen through the pages of this site. In addition, Michael Jackson and his Heal The World Foundation collaborated with numerous other charities. The singer also rendered significant private aids outside the spotlight, supporting children and families in need.